

Sommaire des actes du tabellion de Cruseilles 1697-1794

L'Accordée de village Jean-Baptiste Greuze 1761.

Le notaire établit le contrat de mariage.

L'étude du tabellion présente un grand intérêt tant pour les recherches généalogiques que sur l'histoire régionale : étude des familles (contrats de mariages, testaments, partages, tutelles, donations...) ; vie des communes (bilans financiers annuels, biens communaux...) ; aspects économiques (constitutions de sociétés, projets de moulins, de forges...) et bien d'autres encore.

Le terme de tabellion désigne dans les États de Savoie des XVII<sup>e</sup> et XVIII<sup>e</sup> siècles l'ensemble des actes enregistrés par les notaires. En 1696, le duché de Savoie est partagé en sept départements du tabellion correspondant aux provinces d'Ancien Régime : Savoie propre, Genevois, Faucigny, Chablais, bailliages de Ternier et de Gaillard, Maurienne, Tarentaise. Dans chacun de ces départements se trouvent un certain nombre de bureaux du tabellion : treize pour la Savoie propre, huit pour le Genevois, sept pour le Faucigny, quatre pour le Chablais, un pour Ternier et Gaillard, quatre pour la Maurienne et trois pour la Tarentaise. Le ressort de chacun des quarante bureaux s'étend sur un nombre variable de communes ou paroisses. La plupart des registres de tabellion contient un sommaire, permettant de retrouver plus facilement les actes recherchés. Cependant, le bureau de Cruseilles représente à lui seul 33 registres soit plus de 20 000 pages.

Mettre en place un sommaire pour l'ensemble, nous a paru nécessaire et d'une grande utilité. Le tableau ci-dessous permet ainsi de retrouver les actes du bureau de Cruseilles et contient pour chacun la date, le type d'acte, les noms des intervenants, les lieux, les cotes des ADHS, les numéros de folios et enfin les références des pages numérisées pour chaque acte. Nous nous sommes concentrés uniquement sur les actes les plus parlants aux généalogistes c'est-à-dire les testaments, les contrats de mariage et les inventaires.
